RE: Human Rights Violations of Americans Living Abroad and a State's Obligation to Protect Under International Law—Time to Drain the Swamp of Negligent State Department Staffers

Dear Lieutenant General Flynn,

It is my understanding that you recently spoke with James Ryan in Tokyo, regarding the horrific crimes against him and his son, Jimmy Ryan; and the criminal negligence of the American Consulate in Tokyo. Unfortunately, American Consulates around the world are as criminally negligent as the one in Tokyo.

Donald Trump won the US Elections with a promise to “Drain the Swamp.” Please find enclosed my letter to Secretary of State Tillerson, which explains the “Swamp draining” required in the State Department at present. Also, please find enclosed my letter to the Americans Abroad Caucus requesting an Oversight Hearing on the failure of the State Department to fulfill its legal obligation towards Americans abroad.

My own case Wilcox vs. Spain¹, began in in 2007, with me requesting assistance from the American Consulate in Madrid, since then to no avail—with NGOs criminally negligent in assisting victims. The only one with the power and authority to protest over the violation of the rights of citizens are government officials, and Consular and Embassy employees. I have meticulously researched my own case under the Spanish Constitution, and legal codes and law. I have also meticulously ‘exhausted all domestic remedies’ in Spain in the past 9 years, demonstrating that what the Spanish government pretends are “judicial errors” (in their defense of the 2nd jurisprudence of violence against women (VAW) as human rights violations, Gonzalez Carreño vs. Spain², 2014 (CEDAW)), are not “errors” at all, but unscrupulous manipulations of greedy, misogynistic lawyers, and incompetent judges.

My family tree goes back to Thomas Wilcox, co-author of the ‘Puritan Manifesto,’ 1572, and is one of the early documents of the Puritan movement—which gave genesis to the modern human rights movement.

My family tree also includes John Dickinson (Penman of the Revolution) and John Paul Jones from the American Revolution, and Winston Churchill, on top of my grand-father, who was the first white man to successfully defend a black man (1910). It was his first case after graduating from law school, and Congressman Taylor³ (AL), was so impressed with his argumentation that he brought my grand-father to Washington where he served as a spy before and during WWI. I originally came to Washington, DC in '81, as an intern for former Senator JB Johnston (LA), determined to forge a career in the international political arena. Unfortunately, I quickly became disillusioned with the political process on Capitol Hill and changed my major at George Washington University (GWU) from political science to international marketing. I worked in the financial markets for a few years after my graduation in '85. I then left the USA, and the cocaine-snorting, partying that permeated Washington, and the USA at the time, disgusted by the entire 'Swamp.' I ended up as a "trailing-spouse" and stay-at-home-mom, with NO regrets to having left the 'Rat-Race.' However, I never gave up my dedication or desire to enter into public service, and promote democratic principle and good governance in the communities I serve.

If President Trump is going to fulfill his promise to "Drain the Swamp," it is imperative that civil servants within government agencies start doing their jobs with a minimum of integrity and transparency. The quantity of civil servants within executive, legislative and judicial branches that need to be investigated for criminal negligence, and FIRED is of crisis proportion. If the Trump Administration does not start investigating the rampant seat-warming and negligence that permeates government agencies, then civil unrest will continue to escalate, terminating in Civil War.

I hope you will encourage Secretary of State Tillerson to investigate the rampant criminal negligence with the Consular Affairs divisions of the US State Department. Thank you in advance for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Quenby Wilcox
